

Summary

with anything. The novel explores the idea of crime and punishment, and the debate between Raskolnikov and Porfiry Petrovitch about the causes of crime and the power of those who are able to get away with it. Ultimately, the novel is a reflection on the power of faith and hope, as seen in Sonia's story.